1. [] the Bau Union Sued consisted of Underground Construction Departments I and II and an Above-ground Construction Department. The underground construction departments were employed at Drewitz, Welzow, Preschen, Rotenburg on the Neisse River and Proschwitz airfields, while the above-ground construction department was contracted for the erection of barracks-like buildings on the Sonnenstein Hill in Pirna. The latter work was supervised by one Schnorr (fnu).

3. [redacted] the Bau Union Sued was building a barracks installation for the VP on Sonnenberg Hill in Pirna. The new installation was bordering on the area of the Sonnenstein Sanatorium. Two barracks buildings were nearing completion, while work on other such buildings had been started.

1. Comment. The Bau Union Sued is subordinate to the Construction Department of the East German Ministry of the Interior and is charged with the execution of construction projects for the VP air force. Of the airfields mentioned, Preschen is identical with Jocksdorf, Rotenburg with Bremenham and Proschwitz (probably misidentified with Purschwitz); with Bautzen-Litten. Welzow airfield has in the meantime been occupied by a Soviet bomber regiment, and Drewitz airfield is probably also earmarked for occupation by a Soviet unit. An aircraft designs bureau and the VP signal school are located on Sonnenstein Hill in Pirna. The buildings reported are being constructed for these installations.
